For a complete copy of the program solicitation—National Environmental Education Training Program—connect to <http://www.epa.gov/education/educate/solicitation.html> Please disseminate this information, as appropriate.

The National Training Program delivers environmental education training and long-term support to teachers and other education professionals across the U.S. to enable them to effectively teach about environmental issues. Environmental education training refers to activities such as classes, workshops, seminars, conferences, and on-line learning which are designed to prepare teachers and other education professionals to effectively teach about environmental issues. Long-term support refers to activities that support training such as maintaining a web site of quality environmental education information, materials, and resources for educators; integrating environmental education into colleges and universities; linking environmental education to state efforts; and applying the results of research and evaluation to environmental education training programs.

Eligible institutions may be a member of a consortium in more than one application. However, such institutions may not apply as the sole applicant or as the lead institution in a consortium in more than one application. Faculty interested in submitting a proposal should send to Elaine Riberich (Office of Research 123 University Place, 47413, emr@pitt.edu) by May 18, 2010 a description of their proposed project so that appropriate action can be taken to ensure that the University submits within their limits. Applications must be e-mailed to U.S. EPA no later than July 26, 2010 by 11:59 pm EDT.

For a list of additional Programs Limiting the Number of Allowed Institutional Submissions connect to the Office of Research home page <http://www.pitt.edu/~offres/> then select Funding Resources.
