Now is the season to celebrate the research and creativity of undergraduates across the Pitt campus and beyond. The psychology honors society for undergraduate students, Psi Chi, is hosting a student research poster session, which will involve students from Pitt and other regional schools.