PITTFILM TRAVEL TO COLLECTIONS GRANT

The University of Pittsburgh’s leading Slavic and East European video and DVD collection includes the largest collection of Slovak films outside of Central Europe.

Online information about the Slovak collection, which is non-circulating, is available through http://www.pitt.edu/~votruba/sstopics/sstopics.html

Supported by Pitt’s Office of the Dean of Arts and Sciences, the Russian and East European Studies Center (REES), the Slavic Department, and the Film Studies Program, the Pittfilm Travel to Collections Grant solicits annually applications from scholars with developed research projects that would benefit from on-site access to this collection. The selection committee would look favorably on those applications that include a research presentation as a public lecture.

Travel awards are intended to defray costs of domestic airfare, two nights’ lodging, and a modest per diem for three days.

Interested scholars will need to send an electronic copy of a one-page, single-spaced project description (including preferred dates and a list of anticipated research materials in the Pitt collection).
