Thank you for your inquiry about our Russian and East European Summer Language Institute (SLI). Ours is a well-established program of intensive language study that places emphasis on practical proficiency in the target language. We offer six-week and eight-week programs in Pittsburgh, as well as a 5+5 program in intensive Russian language (5 weeks in Pittsburgh; 5 weeks at Moscow State University in Russia), a 6+4 program in intensive Polish language (6 weeks in Pittsburgh; 4 weeks in Poland), a four-week program in Poland for students with prior Polish language study, and a four-week program in Bulgaria for those who have completed beginning-level language. The Moscow program will include a new advanced course designed to address the unique educational needs of heritage speakers of Russian. All study-abroad programs include travel and cultural programming in the targeted country. All programs include extracurricular activities such as film viewing, singing, cooking classes and cultural lectures. The study-abroad programs include pre-travel orientations.

An instructional staff chosen for its experience, enthusiasm, and commitment to language teaching ensures the high academic quality of Pitt’s SLI program. Daily contact with instructors, both in class and out, and the use of native speakers in all sections create an environment conducive to effective language acquisition. Classes are in session Monday through Friday from 9:00 a.m. until 3:00 p.m. All courses are equivalent to one year of college-level language instruction. Class size is limited to twelve students per section.

The location at the University of Pittsburgh ensures access to the latest in technology and a sophisticated urban setting with social and cultural amenities. SLI students will have access to all Pitt educational and recreational facilities, including libraries, gym, pool, and computer facilities. The dormitory and classrooms are air-conditioned. (Residence in the dormitory is optional).

All applicants may apply for the various scholarships that the SLI has available. Over 90 per cent of applicants receive partial or full funding. Please see attached instructions for applying for a scholarship. Non-Pitt students wishing to apply for a GSL do so through their home institution.

Applications are accepted on a rolling basis for the six and eight-week Pittsburgh programs, and can be accepted up through the first day of classes if the section is not filled. The deadline for application to the Moscow and Poland programs, and for financial aid consideration, is March 22, 2005.

The 2005 Russian Summer Language Institute
University of Pittsburgh

The 2005 Russian Summer Institute will take place on the Pitt campus during the period:

PITT ONLY: June 6 - July 29, 2005 (eight credits)
PITT/MOSCOW: June 6- July 8 in Pittsburgh;
July 9 -August 13 in Moscow (ten credits)

Description of Courses:

Russian 0210
BEGINNING INTENSIVE RUSSIAN 8 or 10 credits
A thorough introductory language course. Emphasis is placed on communicative competence – active use of new structures in reading, dialogues, free conversation, and listening comprehension.

Russian 0220
INTERMEDIATE INTENSIVE RUSSIAN 8 or 10 credits
A rigorous presentation of the basic uses of all nominal and verbal categories: declension of nouns and adjectives in all cases, singular and plural, deepening the knowledge of aspect uses, verbs of motion, conditional sentences, imperatives, indefinite pronouns, comparison of adjectives, time expressions, prepositional phrases. Introduction to participles and verbal adverbs. Emphasis is placed on developing fluency in conversation and to phraseology on both oral and written levels.

Russian 0230
ADVANCED INTENSIVE RUSSIAN 8 or 10 Credits
This intensive course has two components: The first, conversation, will consist of the preparation of dialogues and in-class discussions in Russian. The second, grammar, will be based on an accompanying grammar text, and short compositions that draw on material covered in the text, as well as on videotapes from contemporary Russian media. Course objectives are: to develop an active vocabulary in practical, everyday topics, particularly those topics which will prepare students for travel to Russia in order to refine composition skills. Readings in Russian literature are also a part of this course.

Russian 0240
FOURTH-YEAR INTENSIVE RUSSIAN 8 or 10 Credits
This course offers a rapid review of more complex aspects of Russian grammar before concentrating on a selective survey of works from contemporary Russian literature and culture. Classroom activities focus on discussions of the assigned works, reports on the authors and the cultural context, and presentations on various aspects of the texts. Homework assignments include summaries of the assigned readings, short essays on the authors, and stylistic analyses of the texts. The goals of this course are three: vocabulary expansion; enhancement of writing and speaking skills; and the acquisition of a basic knowledge of contemporary Russian literature and culture.
New Proposed SLI Program in Pittsburgh and Moscow for Russian Heritage Speakers and teachers of Russian*

This program will be offered for the first time in Summer 2005 pending receipt of funding from the Fulbright-Hays Group Projects Abroad Program. Most expenses for the Moscow portion of the program, including airfare to Moscow, will be covered by the terms of the grant. Up to eight students will be selected on a competitive basis. Open to students at the advanced or fourth-year level only.

This proposed new SLI program is open to Russian heritage speakers on the junior or senior undergraduate level or the graduate level, who are interested either in K-12 or college teaching careers in foreign language or area studies, or in applying their international knowledge to other fields such as government, the professions or international development. The term “heritage speaker” or “heritage learner” refers to a person who has grown up in the U.S. in an informal Russian-language environment, usually at home, without attaining full Russian language proficiency or a native Russian’s complete educational background and cultural awareness.

In addition to graduate and undergraduate students, the SLI will actively recruit into this seminar at least one current or prospective middle or high school teacher of Russian each year. These teachers do not need to be heritage speakers, provided that the level of their spoken Russian language is sufficiently high to allow them to benefit from the seminar and to participate alongside the heritage speakers.

All seminar participants will receive intensive advanced Russian language training for five weeks at the University of Pittsburgh, immediately followed by five weeks at Russia’s most prestigious educational institution, Moscow State University. In each location, the seminar will provide both regular language instruction at the appropriate level (covering material typically presented in a fourth-year Russian course), as well as individualized tutoring and mentoring to address heritage speakers’ specific needs across the wide range of differences in literacy and fluency encountered among such speakers. The Moscow portion of the seminar will utilize local instructors, carefully designed cultural excursions, and other in-country resources to maximize the expansion of participants’ linguistic and cultural knowledge.

A unique feature of this program will be Individualized Cultural Excursions. In addition to group cultural excursions that will be organized for all classes in the Russian SLI to sites of general interest in Moscow (e.g., the Kremlin, Red Square, the Tretyakov Gallery), individualized cultural excursions will be arranged for the heritage learners and school teachers. These excursions will be designed to provide each student with exposure to the use of specialized Russian vocabulary in his/her primary field of academic interest, which may or may not be directly related to the student’s research project that each student will complete during the seminar. For example, a visit could be arranged to a museum dedicated to a specific Russian writer (for a student majoring in literature), artist or musician (for a fine arts or music major), or historical period (for a history major). In each case, a Russian language-only tour of the site will be provided by a local tour guide, and sites featuring written information for visitors in Russian only will be given first priority. The school teachers participating in the seminar will work with our director in Russia to select individual excursion sites where they can obtain cultural information to share with their students upon their return to the U.S. Our staff will assist all seminar participants in acquiring background information about their excursion sites in advance, so that this preparation will help them to attain the greatest possible gains in linguistic and cultural knowledge from their site visits.

Funding announcements for this program will be made in early March 2005.
The 2005 East European Summer Language Institute will take place on the Pitt campus during the period:

PITT ONLY: June 6 – July 15, 2005 (6 credits)
PITT/POLAND: June 6 – July 15 in Pittsburgh; July 16 – August 13 in Poland (10 credits)
POLAND ONLY: July 18 – August 12 (4 credits)
BULGARIA: July 18 – August 12 (4 credits) following the Bulgarian Pitt Program

The East European Summer Language Institute, attracting students from all over the U.S. and Canada, will consist of intensive, five-hours-a-day instruction, allowing students to make the greatest possible progress in the target language during the time available. A full schedule of cultural and social activities, including lectures, discussion groups, and film showings is planned. Students are not obliged to live on campus. Weekends will be free. Students will receive the equivalent of an entire year of undergraduate language study.

Description of Courses:

BEGINNING INTENSIVE COURSES:

BULGARIAN, CROATIAN, HUNGARIAN, POLISH, SERBIAN, SLOVAK, UKRAINIAN 6 credits
A thorough introductory language course. Emphasis is placed on communicative competence – active use of new structures in reading, dialogues, free conversation, and listening comprehension.

BEGINNING INTENSIVE POLISH (STUDY IN POLAND OPTION) 6+4 (6 weeks in Pittsburgh, 4 weeks in Poland) 10 credits
The class begins with the class in Pittsburgh, and continues with the same textbook (First Year Polish) in Poland, covering two more lessons than the group in Pittsburgh. In Poland the course changes from 5 hours to 3 hours per day devoted to the primary textbook, with 2 hours per day being based on materials supplementary to the textbook on practical topics especially relevant to the stay in Poland (travel, shopping, cooking, social customs, restaurant eating, time and dates, etc.) Instructors are chosen from the National Polish Language Center in Łódź. Meetings with Polish students, and excursions both around Łódź and to other Polish cities (Warsaw, Krakow, Gdańsk) is incorporated into the program. STUDENTS MAY JOIN THE SECOND PART OF THE COURSE, IN POLAND, FOR FOUR CREDITS, IF THEY CAN DEMONSTRATE BY TELEPHONE INTERVIEW A MASTERY OF POLISH COMMENSURATE WITH ONE SEMESTER OF UNIVERSITY STUDY.

INTERMEDIATE INTENSIVE COURSES:

CROATIAN, POLISH, SERBIAN, SLOVAK 6 credits
Assuming familiarity on the part of the student with the basics of grammar, the intermediate course is oriented more around practical topics of special relevance to prospective travelers to the target country (travel, social events, shopping, dining, entertainment, popular culture, history, and so on). Special attention is devoted to developing a good socio-linguistic consciousness, so as to smoothly function in the target culture. At the same time, the intermediate courses provide a systematic review of the grammar, to which are added elements more characteristic of the written language (complex sentences, the subjunctive mood, participles and gerunds).

INTERMEDIATE INTENSIVE POLISH (STUDY IN POLAND OPTION) 6+4 (6 weeks in Pittsburgh, 4 weeks in Poland) 6 credits
The class begins with the class in Pittsburgh, and finishes the textbook (Intermediate Polish) in Poland, covering two more lessons than the group in Pittsburgh. The course in Poland then continues with the Intermediate Polish Reader, supplemented by materials prepared by instructors from the National Polish Language Center in Łódź. Meetings with Polish students, and excursions both around Łódź and to other Polish cities is incorporated into the program. STUDENTS MAY JOIN THE SECOND PART OF THE COURSE, IN POLAND, FOR FOUR CREDITS, IF THEY CAN DEMONSTRATE BY TELEPHONE INTERVIEW A MASTERY OF POLISH COMMENSURATE WITH ONE YEAR UNIVERSITY STUDY.

INTERMEDIATE INTENSIVE BULGARIAN (STUDY IN BULGARIA) 4 credits
Students who have completed the equivalent of one year of Bulgarian language study can continue their study of Bulgarian in an SLI program operated at New Bulgarian University in Sofia. This course is scheduled to follow the SLI Introductory Bulgarian course, so that students will be able to complete the equivalent of three semesters of Bulgarian language study by enrolling in both Introductory and Intermediate Bulgarian in the SLI in the same summer. Excursions within Sofia are incorporated into the Intermediate program.

ADVANCED INTENSIVE SERBIAN/CROATIAN/BOSNIAN 6 credits
Assuming a basic mastery of vocabulary and grammatical structures, the advanced course aims to improve communicative competence in areas of practical and public concern (history, politics, popular culture), particularly from a comparative perspective. The course is topically oriented, with instructional blocks devoted to such topics as social customs, the educational system, employment and vacations, the health and welfare systems, sources of social tension, and so on.
